INTRODUCTION TO FILKINDEX, REVISED EDITION
by Roberta Rogow

WHAT IS FILK?
Filk is the Music of Science Fiction. At first, there were two branches of Science Fiction music. There was the "serious" music, like Gustav Holst's tone poem "The Planets", or Donald Swann's settings for the poems of J.R.R. Tolkein, which were performed at concerts, by great artists. And then there was the sort of thing sung at impromptu singalongs at SF Conventions, written by Fans and performed with great verve and not so much artistry by people with guitars and banjos, in hotel rooms at private parties.

Filk began as parody. According to Science Fiction Historian Sam Moskowitz, there was Filk before they knew it was Filk. The would-be writers and editors of First Fandom concocted strange songs to familiar tunes like "Clementine" or "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" that paid tribute to their favorite Space Operas, or chronicled the deeds of local Fans. Legend has it that someone printed a song-sheet with the lyrics to some of these ditties, and that someone managed to miss the "o" key and hit the "i" instead, turning "Folk Songs" into "Filk Songs". SF Fandom has never been the same since.

Filk songs have grown in scope and intensity since their inception. Margaret Middleton of the Filk Foundation has tried to divide Filk into categories, and come up with this+
ALPHA FILK - Lyrics from stories, which may be set to music by the writer of the story or by someone else. Heinlein's "Green Hills of Earth" is the most obvious example.
BETA FILK - Songs about stories, with several sub-divisions:
Beta-1, songs that translate a story into ballad form. Julia Ecklar's "Daddy's Little Girl" is a prime example.
Beta-2, songs that are essentially character studies, like Leslie Fish's "Bones".
Beta-3, songs that are essentially fanfiction in verse form. "Our Lady of the Storm", by Roberta Rogow, is an example; it is based on the Darkover Universe of Marion Zimmer Bradley.
Beta-4, songs that are original short stories in verse form, like Cindy McQuillan's "Fuel to Feed the Drive".
GAMMA FILK - Songs about Fans and Fandom.
Gamma-1, songs that deal with some aspect of the Fannish life, like "The Fans are Sleeping..."
Gamma-2, character studies of particular people famous in SF Fandom, like Ben Bova's tribute to the drinking capacity of Gordon Dickson, "The Ballad of Gordy Dickson".
DELTA FILK - Songs that chronicle modern life and technology
Delta-1, songs for the space program, like Leslie Fish's anthem, "Hope Eyrie/Eagle Has Landed".
Delta-2, songs that deal with other aspects of the high-tech life, especially computers, like Jane Robinson's "A Look at Things That Don't Exist."
TAU FILK- songs that have nothing directly to do with Science Fiction, but pop up at Filk-sings anyway. A number of parodies by Allen Sherman, animal ditties of Flanders and Swann, and the verses of Rudyard Kipling come to mind in this context.

WHEN DID FILK GET INTO PRINT?
As soon as someone wrote a good parody, someone else wanted to sing it. Filk-song lyrics were typed onto songsheets and passed out at Conventions in the mid-1950's, but the first collection of Filk-song lyrics appears to have been done by Bruce Pelz from 1965 to 1969. Various small collections appeared during the 1970's, sponsored by local clubs. As Fandom grew, fuelled by the influx from Media Fans, so did the impetus to collect Filksongs.

The first Hymnal was the HOPSFA Hymnal, compiled by the SF Association of Johns Hopkins University, first printed in 1975, an attempt to collect ALL known Filk between covers. At the same time, "Filthy Pierre" Erwin Strauss was accumulating his "Microfilk". The NESFA Hymnal was compiled by the New England SF Association; the Second Edition, printed in 1979, set a high standard for subsequent Filk collections. The third major entry in the Hymnal line-up is the WesterFilk Hymnal, originally published by Off-Centaur Publications.

Hymnals are produced irregularly. More common are the smaller Filk-books like "Xenofilkia" (Lee Gold, Ed.)or "The Philly Philk Phlash" (Carol Kabakjian, ed.), which appear several times a year, with information on Filk and Filkers, as well as lyrics.

WHERE CAN I HEAR FILK?
Filk is now a major part of most SF Convention programs. Although Filkers used to collect in private hotel rooms, the mundane guests at the hotel began to complain about the hilarity, particularly after midnight. Most SF Cons now allot some meeting-room space to Filkers after the rest of the Program has finished. The most popular format for a Filk-Sing is "Pick, Pass or Play", a circle that includes everyone in the room. Participants may either "pick" a song for someone else to sing, "play" something themselves, or "pass" to someone else. "Can You Top This?" is a filking contenst between two or three people who try to out-pun, out-gross, or out-sing each other, before an admiring audience.

A few types of Filk-song have emerged. There is the "ose" song (the term derives from a joke: there is "ose" and "more-ose") which is best described as depressingly grim. There is the outrageous parody. There is the lampoon, that deflates the grand pretensions of everything from the Master, Tolkein, to the Forceful Fans of Star Trek. All of these can be heard at Filk-sings.

For those who cannot get to Conventions, there are Filk-Tapes. Technology has caught up with Fandom, and it is now relatively easy for a Fan to produce a decently playable audio-cassette using minimum recording and reproduction equipment. Almost every well-known Filker, and a few not so well-known, has been recorded somewhere, somehow, some time. There are even a few producers of Filk-tapes who will act as distributors for other Filkers.

There is even a group trying to produce quality Filk-tapes for the Professional market, using only original material. The Off-Centaur organization has been re-vamped into Firebird Productions, and is responsible for many innovations in the Filk field. As Off-Centaur, the group produced a series of Filk-tapes at WorldCons. As Firebird, they are making great strides in bringing Filk to the attention of the Mainstream musical world.

WHERE CAN I FIND OUT MORE ABOUT FILK?

This Index is an attempt to provide information about individual Filk-songs. This volume contains a list of Filk-books printed in the last 20 years or so, with the last known address of each, and provides a list of Filk-songs, by Title and Author, a citation for each song.

This is the Revised Edition of FILKINDEX. The previous edition, compiled by Sourdough Jackson, was closed out in 1988. The Revised Edition contains material that was not put into the first FILKINDEX, and clarifies some of the typos and minor mistakes that found their way into the previous edition.

For those who are interested in discussing Filk and similar matters:
Margaret Middleton runs The Filk Foundation, which co-ordinates information about filk, filkers, and filking Cons. For information, send a SASE to her at P>O> Box 45122, Little Rock AR 72214

There is also an APA, APA-Filk, run by John Boardman, 234 E. 19th St, Brooklyn NY 11226-5302. Each member provides 60 copies of a brief newsletter, which is bound with similar newsletters and sent out to the membership of the APA. Send SASE to John, or send a copy of your newsletter.

Wail Songs is a major distributor of Filk-books and Filk-tapes. Send SASE to Bob Laurent, P>O> Box 29888, Oakland CA 94604 for his catalog, which gives annotations as well as listings for his offerings.

EsFM Escape from Mundania! A (rock and roll style) filk music book by Barry and Sally Childs-Helton. 1987. Publisher: Space Opera House, 5141 Norwaldo Ave., Indianapolis, IN 46205. In print.

Fan# Fan-tastic [issue #] A well-produced zine. Editor: Eric Gerdes. Publisher: Dag Designs, 1810 14th Street, Santa Monica, CA 90404. The first issue features the early work of Chris Weber, and the second features Karen Willson. Also contains comic strips and articles. #1 and #2 came out in 1982 and 1983, and #3 will be published Real Soon Now. In print.

Fil## Filk: the Final Frontier [issue #] Three volumes of original filksongs and parodies by Claire Maier. 1985-1989. Contact: Claire Maier, 11716 Stonington Place, Silver Spring, MD 20902.

FiU## Filker Up [issue #] Two collections of L.A. fandom's filk efforts, both ancient and modern. 1986-1987. Editor: Lee Gold. Contact Lee Gold, 3965 Alla Road, Los Angeles, CA 90066. Contains both reprints from the Pelz manuals and more recent efforts of LASFS' more traditional filkers. In print.

FM1-3 The Filksong Manual Part 1 thru 3 (the Pelz Manual)
FM4 The Filksong Manual Part 4 (Pelz) Out of print and, alas, probably RARE into the bargain. Originally published 1965-1969. Vols 1-3 reprinted 1978 with additional material. Editor: Bruce Pelz, 15931 Kalisher Street, Granada Hills, CA 91344. According to Sourdough Jackson, these are the filkbooks that started it all. To Jackson's knowledge, there are no earlier fan publications specifically related to filk music. They contain some of the best of the early filk songs, including a good bit of Poul Anderson's material and a great deal of Gilbert & Sullivan filks. Pelz also began the tradition on including musical scores whenever legally pollible in filkbooks. These really should be reprinted!

FFAE Filksongs For All Eternity! A collection of songs about Dark Shadows by various filkers. 1979. Publisher: Old Collinwood Publishing House, c/o Marcy Robin, 9441 La Rosa Dr., Temple City, CA 91760.

FP78 Filthy Pierre's Micro Filk ('78 Edition) A huge collection. Editor: Erwin "Filthy Pierre" Strauss. A gigantic (400+ songs), hard-to-read (poorly-xeroxed microprint) compendium of as many songs as the editor could lay his hands on. He began in 1974 with three sheets and 69 songs. By 1980 this had reached alarming proportions, and a few years later he ceased publication. (There is a 1980 edition.) In later years he provided a magnifier with every filkbook, an absolute necessity. Most of his material was reprinted from fanzines and other filkbooks.

FrCo From the Cockpit [issue #] Post-convention songbooks of Con-Chord. 1983 & 1987. Jointly published by Con-Chord and The Philk Press. Contact: Eric Gerds, 1810 14th St. #101, Santa Monica, CA 90404 or Paul J. Willett, Philk Press, P.O. Box 4128, Panorama City, CA 91412. In print.

Index Notes

When there is more than one version of a song with identical titles I have put the initials of the lyricist after the title to help tell them apart. (I ignored beginning words "The"; "A"; and "An" when I made the comparisons.)

This code was also used if the Filk Title and the Source Tune Title were the same, but not original.

Example: Band From Argo [RC]
Band From Argo, The [CK]

Cold Fusion [CH]
Cold Fusion [HF]

Notations at end of song titles denote more than one lyricist.

Example: <with others>
<with Rogow, R.>

.....

Example: Bound For Argo Suite, The . Willett, P. (Banned From Argo// Ballad of Jed Clampett . Fish, L.//Henning) Kan12; PF13

Orig = Original tune
Trad = Traditional
Anon = Anonymous
(R) = Recorded by (used when author is unknown)
(v0) = Verse number
(;) = Used to separate book codes
(.) = Used to separate title from author, see ex.
() = Source Tune & Score Writer are in brackets
// = Used to separate multiple source tunes & score writers, see ex. If all source tunes are written by one person, are trad or anon the score writer is only listed once (Bonnie Ship the Diamond//Step by Step . Trad)

.....

I want to apologize for any errors in information or spelling that may be in the index.

I want to thank Crystal Hagel, Laura P. Syms, and the libraries of Lansdowne and Philadelphia.
